Hijackers face murder charge

NEW YORK (AP) — The Manhattan district attorney moved formally today to bring murder charges against five Croatian nationalists whose bomb killed a police officer on the ground here while they were hijacking a passenger plane across the Atlantic.

The accused hijackers, who apparently carried out their 30-hour capture of a Trans World Airlines 727 jetliner without actually being armed, were brought to the federal courthouse in Brooklyn by the FBI this morning.

As they awaited arraignment on federal air piracy charges, an assistant from Dist. Atty. Robert Morgenthau's office filed a complaint with the U.S. marshal asking that the prisoners be turned over to local authorities to be arraigned for murder of the police officer, a capital offense.

The hijackers, who demanded and won wide publicity for their cause of Croatian separation from Yugoslavia, surrendered in Paris on Sunday and were returned to New York. They had taken over the plane by threatening to blow it up with what they said were "explosives" wired to their bodies but which turned out to be modeling clay.

The prisoners, four men and a woman, were taken into custody by the FBI at Kennedy Airport and held overnight for arraignment today in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn on air piracy charges.

The offense carries a minimum 20-year prison sentence, but if a death results from the piracy, life imprisonment can be imposed.

Paris police said that just before they gave up, the hijackers learned that a policeman was killed and three others injured in New York City while trying to dismantle a bomb they had planted in Grand Central Station in mid-Manhattan.

The leader of the hijackers said they were "proud" of what they had done.

French authorities said they had told the hijackers they would be executed if any passengers were harmed. They said they gave them a choice of being sent either to the United States or Yugoslavia.

All 53 passengers still held hostage on the hijacked plane were released unharmed, and most of them also flew back to the United States on Sunday. Thirty-five passengers had been released when the plane landed in Gander, Newfoundland, early Saturday, the second stop in the hijacking escapade.

The hijackers were identified by the FBI as Zvonko Busic, 30, his wife, Julienne, 27, and Petar Matovic, 31, all of New York City; Frane Pesut, 25, of Fairview, N.J.; and Mark Vlasic, 29, Stamford, Conn. The four men were born in Yugoslavia and Mrs. Busic is a native of Eugene, Ore., the FBI said.

Dist. Atty. Mario Merola of the Bronx said he would seek first-degree murder indictments against them from a grand jury in the policeman's death. The slaying of a police officer in the line of duty is a capital offense in New York State.

The hijacking, which spanned four nations, was the first in the United States since April 1975, and the first successful one since November 1972, before federal officials instituted tighter airport security.

A spokesman for TWA said Sunday night that officials were attempting to find out whether Mrs. Busic had been employed at one time as a stewardess for the airline.

If she were, he said she might have been aware of airport procedures that would have helped in smuggling the "explosives" — a belt the hijackers said was a bomb in a metal pot six inches in diameter wired as a makeshift detonator — onto the plane.

The involuntary odyssey from New York to Paris — with refueling stops in Montreal, Newfoundland and Iceland — began Friday night about an hour after the New York-to-Chicago flight had taken off.

In Gander, Newfoundland, the 727 was joined by a TWA 707 jet flown from New York on the hijackers' orders to guide them across the ocean. The 727 lacked navigational facilities for the flight.

On orders from the hijackers, four major U.S. newspapers had printed lengthy manifestos found in the Grand Central station locker along with the bomb. The hijackers had told authorities where to find the locker and warned that unless the documents were published, another bomb would go off in some busy spot.

Traffic fatality

Another traffic fatality was recorded in Pettis County Monday morning when this baby deer died after being struck by a car on Route V, about two miles east of Route U. In the background is Suzanne Tipton's car, which skidded off the road while Miss Tipton attempted to avoid the fawn, Miss Tipton, 25, Kansas City, suffered a broken finger. She told the Highway Patrol that she was driving west on Route V and saw an east-bound car stopped. As she approached the stopped car, the deer ran in front of her car.

Kennedy plot may have been a hoax

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Investigators today tried to determine whether an alleged plot to kill Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was serious or merely "idle, drunken talk."

Three persons charged with conspiring to kill the Massachusetts Democrat were arraigned in court today.

David J. King, 31, of Springfield, told The Associated Press he was offered $30,000 to help kill Kennedy while he campaigned here during the weekend for renomination in the Massachusetts Democratic primary on Tuesday.

King and Sandra R. Rondeau, 37, of Westfield, were released on personal recognizance after being booked Saturday by a district court clerk. The clerk originally had set their bail at $50,000 each, but later changed his mind, police said.

Robert E. White, 42, listed as a resident of the Salvation Army's Rehabilitation Center here, was jailed in lieu of $50,000 bail.

Policemen said Sunday that there was a possibility the whole affair was a hoax. One officer, who asked not to be identified, said it might have been "idle, drunken talk."

King, in an interview, said he met White on Aug. 8 at the Salvation Army Center and two days later was offered a chance to make "big money."

He quoted White as saying: "You can make $30,000 altogether. All you have to do is kill U.S. Sen. Kennedy... You get $5,000 down and after the job you get $25,000."

Kennedy appeared Saturday at a fund-raising breakfast at the Oaks Inn. Mrs. Rondeau worked there as a waitress for six months until she quit about a week ago, according to a hotel spokeswoman.

House chairman speaks here

Drawing applause after stating that farmers want "strong support—not controls, not dictates—but simply strong support from Congress," House Agriculture Committee Chairman Tom Foley (D-Wash.) addressed some 75 local and area farmers Sunday afternoon at the State Fair Community College student union.

Foley appeared as the guest of honor at a conference on agriculture sponsored by Fourth District Democratic congressional candidate Ike Skelton.

Viewing his topic from a global perspective, Foley said, "The fundamental question of humanity at this present period in the history of our world is simply this—can we provide enough food to feed ourselves?" To a large extent, he continued, American farmers must address themselves to this situation because they produce 60 per cent of the world's grain exports and provide food to 500 million people.

"We have always had the capacity not only to produce, but also the genius to find answers to our agricultural questions," Foley said. "It is imperative that this situation continue. The decision has already been made for us."

The key to success in American agriculture, Foley said, is "our system of family farms, which are a testament to the hard work and faith of our rural residents." The family farm concept has been embraced as firm national policy, Foley noted, "since the days of the Homestead Act in the 19th century, which promised land to those sufficiently strong-willed, strong-backed and resourceful."

Farm spokesman

Rep. Tom Foley (D-Wash.), who represents farmers in Congress as head of the House Agriculture Committee, brought federal farm policy-making to the grassroots level Sunday as he addressed some 75 local and area farmers at the State Fair Community College

"In these earlier days, farm land was cheap and machinery simple," Foley said. "Now that has all changed and, relatively speaking, today's farmer is not getting the kind of return his father did. Farmers have always seemed to make up this difference with greater efficiency, but there is always a limit to how far anything can be practiced, and efficiency, in this case, is no exception."

Shifting his focus to congressional activity, Foley said he feels satisfied with the revised inheritance tax exemption clause that has been included in the joint House-Senate tax reform bill that is expected to be passed and signed soon by President Ford. This measure, which has been at the top of all farm organizations' legislative priority lists, increases the value of an estate which may be exempted from the federal inheritance tax from $60,000 (established in the 1940's) to $120,000. By 1980, this figure will be increased to $175,000.

"The $60,000 figure was set more than 30 years, a generation and a half ago, and is completely unrealistic now," Foley said. Responding to a later comment from one farmer who said he didn't feel even the proposed revised figures went far enough, Foley noted that because of the diverse backgrounds of legislators in the House and Senate, "compromises must sometimes be made. We feel that while the proposed figures are not as large as many would like, they are still a solid improvement over the present situation. If we had held out, we very possibly would not have gotten anything."

He also remarked on a second subject, grain embargoes, which he said "stand along with the increased inheritance tax exemption as the two issues that virtually all farm organizations agree on."

"Farmers should be compensated if grain exports are shut off for foreign policy objectives," Foley remarked. "If someone is going to interrupt them for

Scientific panels urge aerosol ban or controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fluorocarbons from aerosol spray cans have damaged the earth's protective ozone shield and will have to be selectively regulated or banned, the National Academy of Sciences said today.

But two academy panels which studied the problem said any ban or regulation of aerosol spray cans should be delayed one to two years until completion of further studies on the ultimate effects of the reduction in the protective shield of ozone in the atmosphere.

The panels said the reduction in ozone, which shields the earth from dangerous ultraviolet radiation, could lead to increases in skin cancer and potentially great changes in the earth's temperature and climate.

The reports were designed to resolve the controversy over the relationship between fluorocarbons and the earth's ozone layer. The panels said there was insufficient evidence to state precisely the extent of damage to the ozone shield.

Philip Handler, NAS president, said in a letter to the White House "that a one or two year delay in actual implementation of a ban or regulation would not be unreasonable."

However, he recommended the government begin immediately to establish the regulatory machinery that will be necessary to either reduce the use of fluorocarbons or ban them completely.

The reports said if fluorocarbons continue to be released at 1973 levels, "an ultimate reduction in ozone of about seven per cent" would result. Half of this loss would occur in about 50 years, the panels said.

The panels expressed particular concern about climate changes that might result from a slight reduction of the protective ozone shield. Temperatures could increase on earth. This, in turn, would affect rainfall and evaporation of moisture. "Such changes could lead initially to a general shift of the earth's climatic belts, and ultimately to a significant melting of polar ice and a worldwide increase in sea level," the reports said.

Any weather changes pose particular problems for agriculture.

The report stressed that fears of climate changes are only possibilities at present and that more research is needed before the effects of ozone reduction can be determined.

After hearings and possible revisions, the studies will be submitted to Congress.

Defense bill passes Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today completed congressional action on a record $104.3-billion defense appropriation bill that puts off a decision on full production of the B1 bomber until after next year's presidential inauguration.

The measure, approved on a voice vote, now goes to President Ford. The House passed it last Thursday on vote of 328 to 45.

After the vote, the Senate began debate on a $41.9-billion revenue-sharing bill that would extend for five years and nine months the program that allocates federal funds with no strings to localities throughout the country.

The bill would allocate $6.9 billion the first year and increase the amount by $150 million each year after that. Unless it is extended, the program expires this Dec. 31.

When the Senate completes action on the revenue-sharing bill, the measure probably will have to go to a conference committee to resolve differences with the House version.

Carter launches trip with stop in Alabama

By JAMES RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter campaigned in Alabama today with Gov. George Wallace, a former political rival, at his side and told a group of small businessmen they are "the forgotten Americans" of the Republican administration.

Wallace said he was "very proud" to have the Georgian, with whom he had vied in the election primaries, in Alabama.

As Carter began the second week of his campaign with a tour of some Sunbelt states, President Ford remained in Washington. He is to make his first campaign foray on Wednesday.

Carter told the small business gathering in Birmingham that the Republican administration had bogged down hopelessly in red tape that complicated life for small businessmen. He promised that he would improve government small business aid programs if elected.

Meanwhile, Ford will be in the public eye today with bill-signing ceremonies. One measure would require about 50 federal boards to conduct most of their business in public, while another measure would protect livestock producers against packing companies that go bankrupt.

Carter launches a 12-state swing, with stops today in Birmingham, Ala., Oklahoma City and Phoenix, Ariz., after spending the weekend at home in Plains, Ga. Carter scheduled a fund-raising dinner appearance tonight in Phoenix for Rep. Morris K. Udall, another former opponent.

foreign policy objectives, then the farmers ought to be compensated for having to pay the price through their markets for that foreign policy objective."

Foley said his committee is presently working on a new, overall farm bill for congressional consideration during the next session. One reason for his appearance in Sedalia Sunday, he explained, "is to get input from the farmers themselves because we sincerely want to get your opinions and thoughts."

The final preparation and introduction of this bill he assured his audience, "will be (his committee's) first order of business for the next session of Congress. This legislation, he added, "will, I believe, be the most important bill that the next Congress will consider."

Foley also noted the recently passed first amendment to the Packers-Stockyard Act since it was approved in 1921 is designed to protect cattlemen from financial catastrophe caused by the bankruptcy of meat packing companies to which they have sold livestock. A flurry of such incidents in recent years triggered passage of the amendment.

"Now stringent bonding requirements exist for all meat packing firms," he noted. "These new requirements provide the strongest protection that sellers of cattle have ever had."

Foley also touched briefly on effects that two federal regulatory agencies have had on farming operations and noted that relief now exists. Environmental Protection Agency actions against farm pesticides and insecticides must now be reported to the secretary of agriculture before they are implemented, Foley said. The secretary then has an opportunity to investigate and recommend possible changes. Similarly, farmers or family operations are for the most part exempt from CSHA regulations.

"I don't think any farmer opposes the concept of safety for workers or a clean environment," Foley said. "And it certainly wasn't the intent of the legislature to unduly harass them. The unfortunate case is that certain laws are not interpreted or administered in the way that was intended."

To avoid such situations in the future, he emphasized, "Congress is going to have a stronger oversight on these regulatory agencies that affect small businessmen and farmers. I cannot stress this enough to you. We are determined in this regard, we really are."

After making this optimistic announcement, Foley went on to warn farmers of an impending cloud on the horizon. Department of Justice officials, he said, are currently investigating the organization of agriculturally-oriented cooperatives, such as rural electric cooperatives, for possible violation of certain federal laws.

The important future task of his committee in this area, Foley said, "is to educate our urban colleagues of the unique status of these cooperatives and the many, multi-faceted services they provide. It will be a continuing struggle, but we intend to stick with it all the way."

Foley said he also favored continued federal funding of long-range soil conservation projects on farms "because the money we put into this is absolutely the best investment we can ever make for the future of not only our farms, but our entire scope of natural resources."

Commenting on candidate Skelton, Foley said he will do "everything possible" to help Skelton, if elected, secure a seat on his agriculture committee. Because Skelton has served on the agriculture committee of the Missouri Senate, Foley said "his chances are excellent because his record is excellent in this field."

Also addressing the audience Sunday afternoon were: Clall Carpenter, of the MFA; Bill Powell, Mid-America Dairyman; Joe Sonnenmoser, National Farmers Organization; and Lowell Motler, Missouri Farm Bureau.

U.S. plans to veto Viet application

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today instructed Ambassador William Scranton to veto Vietnam's application for membership in the United Nations, the ambassador said today.

After meeting with Ford, Scranton told reporters that the U.S. action was based on the fact that there had been "very little" response so far from the Vietnamese on U.S. demands for information about Americans missing in action in the Vietnam war.

Vietnam has a pending application for U.N. membership. Scranton said the issue will come up for a vote in the Security Council Tuesday.

"The President instructed me to veto that admission," Scranton said. "For some time we have been trying to work with Vietnam" regarding the MIA's, Scranton said, adding that there has been little response to date.

Scranton said Vietnam has failed to meet two criteria for admission to the United Nations: "peace loving" and "humanitarian."

Local teen charged with 4 car thefts

A four-count charge of tampering with a motor vehicle, a felony, was filed in Magistrate Court Monday morning against Carl Eugene Johnson, 16, 516 East 12th.

Johnson, a juvenile, was certified Sept. 2 by Circuit Judge Frank Meyer to stand trial on the charges.

The charge, filed by Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming, alleges Johnson stole four different cars in Pettis County during a two-month period earlier this year, including the theft of a 1976 Oldsmobile from Patty and Lynn Wagenknecht on June 3; a 1976 Mercury owned by Jack Sheldy on May 27; a 1974 Ford owned by Kenneth Ream on May 23; and a 1975 Plymouth owned by Richard Hayes on July 30.

Johnson is being held in the county jail in lieu of $3,500 bond.

In other action Monday morning, perjury charges were filed against Randy Lou Mitchell, formerly of Route 6, in connection with statements he made in Circuit Court Sept. 7 concerning his employment.

Mitchell allegedly told Judge Meyer he was still employed at Pittsburg Corning Corp. during a probation docket hearing, which Mitchell was required to attend by the court. Mitchell, the charge states, was not employed. His employment had been terminated prior to the probation hearing, the charge stated.

Mitchell was sentenced to two years in prison in connection with a 1974 conviction on charges of tampering with a motor vehicle. He was subsequently placed on five years' probation.

It is not known when Mitchell will be arraigned on the charge, as he is currently being held in the Morgan County jail in lieu of bond on check charges there.

Scranton said, "As far as I am concerned and as far as the President is concerned, we have not attempted to play politics at the United Nations."

"Politics played no part in the decision," he added.

Scranton said he has received letters from the families of many of the MIA's. Referring to Vietnam's refusal to account for all missing Americans, Scranton said, "I frankly believe this is brutal and inhumane treatment of the families."

Earlier, a spokesman for the Vietnamese embassy in Paris said the Hanoi government has exchanged diplomatic notes with the United States for the past two months in an effort to establish normal relations between the two countries. He said the Vietnamese government has received "no positive reply" from Washington.

The spokesman said the Hanoi government took the initiative in the exchange "to express our goodwill towards the establishment of normal relations and the search for Americans missing in Vietnam."

Ashcroft issues

10-point proposal

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Republican attorney General candidate Jim Ashcroft released a 10-point crime proposal today to combat what he called "this wave of increasing crime."

"Crime in Missouri has increased 99 per cent since 1970," the assistant attorney general claimed in a series of news conferences held throughout the state.

Among his proposals were the establishment of a statewide investigation bureau, a death penalty law to replace the state's current statute which has been declared unconstitutional, revision of the state's criminal code, witness immunity legislation and minimum standards for law enforcement personnel.

The proposals are nothing new. They have been brought before the Missouri Legislature in the past with varying results. Many of them have also been proposed by the Missouri Action Plan for Public Safety, a study group commissioned by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

CB radio stolen from truck Sunday

Another citizens band radio was reported stolen in Sedalia Sunday night.

Robert West, 2608 Westley Court, reported that his radio, valued at $169, was stolen from his truck parked at Broadway Lanes, 2019 West Broadway, between 7 and 9:56 p.m. Sunday. Although the truck was locked, police reported that a window had been left partially open.

In other police news, thieves broke into two vending machines in the office of the Teamster's Union, 1806 West Broadway, over the weekend. A window in a north door was broken to gain entry to the building. An undetermined amount of change was taken from the machines.

Damage suit seeks $50,000

A $50,000 damage suit was filed in Circuit Court Monday morning by Gail Palmer, mother of one of two Sedalia youths killed in an automobile accident Thursday morning northeast of Sedalia. Named as defendants in the suit were the father of the youth and the estate of the second youth killed.

Myron Eugene Meier, 16, 2333 Southwest Boulevard, and Timothy L. Hieronymus, 16, 1400 State Fair Blvd., were killed in a two-car accident Thursday on Route 6, approximately 22 miles north of Route 111. Eldon Lee McClam, driver of the second vehicle involved, which was sideswiped by Meier's car, was not injured.

Mrs. Palmer's petition states her son, Timothy Hieronymus, was killed while riding as a passenger in Meier's car. The accident was the result of Meier's careless and negligent driving, the petition claims.

Meier's estate and James E. Hieronymus, father of Timothy Hieronymus, are the defendants. Mrs. Palmer's suit further asks that the $50,000 sought be "apportioned" by the court between herself as the plaintiff and James Hieronymus, one of the two defendants.

Two to hospital after collision

Two Green Ridge residents were injured in a two-car collision shortly after 2 a.m. Sunday on Highway 52, 23 miles west of Highway 65.

According to the Highway Patrol, an eastbound car driven by Lawrence Wilbert Vollmer, 22, Green Ridge, crossed the center line of the highway and struck a westbound car, driven by Marian Edward Schmidt, 33, also of Green Ridge, head-on.

Sharon Lynn Schmidt, 32, a passenger in her husband's auto, sustained possible back injuries, and Lloyd Edward Wyeers, 21, also of Green Ridge, a passenger in the Vollmer auto, sustained a lacerated nose, according to the Patrol. Both were treated at Bothwell Hospital and released.

Warsaw escapees remain at large

WARSAW — Authorities here are still searching for two youths who escaped from the Benton County jail here Friday night while awaiting their preliminary hearings on cattle rustling charges.

Jackie Robinson, 17, Edwards, and Elton E. Brown, 18, Cross Timbers, were discovered missing from the jail shortly after 1 a.m. Saturday.

The two reportedly pried loose ceiling material in their cell and crawled over the top to the jail's outer wall. They then pried bricks loose and slipped through an 18-inch hole they made in the outer wall, authorities said.

Activities enrich lives of homebound

NEW YORK (AP)—A new program through which a variety of recreational, cultural, social and craft activities is brought into the homes of the disabled has been launched to help relieve the daily isolation of the chronically ill and homebound.

"The Quality of Life" program was begun less than a year ago in the borough of Queens by the Jewish Community Services of Long Island, a family counseling agency.

The project evolved out of the agency's concern for the unmet needs of the chronically ill, according to George Rothman, executive director of JCSLI.

"Medical treatment is not their problem, since the physical needs of these people are usually well taken care of," he explained. "But the homebound existence imposed on them by the seriousness of their disability does create deep spiritual and emotional isolation."

"Many of our clients have seen no one outside of their immediate families for years. In cases of prolonged illness, family relationships are frequently severely strained."

At present there are 45 men and women in the program. Some take part in the weekly socialization hour made possible by a telephone conference call hookup; others are members of a chess club that also meets weekly through the conference call arrangement.

Many are involved with painting and sculpture under the supervision of an art therapist assigned to the program. One woman is being taught conversational Spanish by a volunteer instructor who comes to her house regularly.

"Our goal is to engage clients in any number of special activities that will enrich their daily lives so they are no longer spectators but are brought back into the mainstream of living," Rothman pointed out.

Every person who applies to the program is interviewed by a JCSLI social worker to evaluate interests and capabilities. A customized program of activities is then developed and brought into the home at a time most convenient for each client.

Disabled men and women between the ages of 21 and 64 are eligible. Most of those now in the program are in their 40s and 50s, suffering from such diseases as multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (Lou Gehrig's disease), Burgher's disease, rheumatoid arthritis and strokes.

"These are relatively young men and women who face a future severely limited by chronic illness," Rothman said. "At a prime time of life they are dealing with an unexpected disability. The emotional backlash is enormous. The elderly more or less resign themselves to illness as a natural consequence of their age. Our clients are still struggling to adjust."

Volunteers contribute to the operation of the program by serving as visitors and shoppers for the homebound. One edits a newsletter that goes out to clients and to which they contribute.

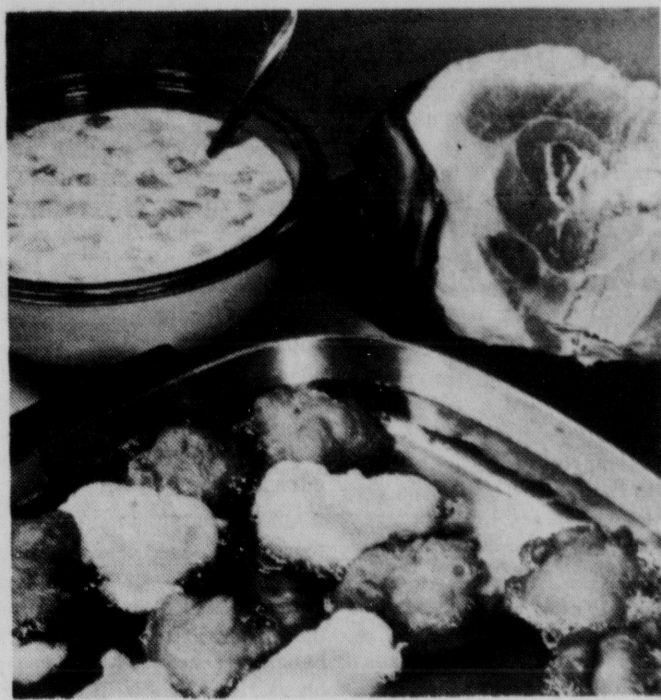

One volunteer gives instruction in needlepoint and another teaches sewing. Several spend their time on the telephone trying to discover local resources that will answer special requests from clients.

A barber and a beautician are available to the homebound, many of whom express concern about their appearance.

"Maintaining self-esteem is essential to morale," Rothman noted, "and so we consider beauty care not only a legitimate request, but one that is quite important for general well-being."

Counseling is offered in selected instances. Among the new activities being investigated for the chronically ill are the setting up of aquariums, plant growing and a lecture series to go out to clients via a telephone conference call.

Fritters make leftovers something special

By AILEEN CLAIRE

There is a lot of good meat left on ham, turkey and chicken bones. Rather than throwing such leftovers away since you can't get good slices for sandwiches, clean the meat from the bones and make main dish fritters. These prove to be surprise treats for most. Deep fry in peanut oil to cut down on cholesterol and add different seasonings or ingredients to the leftover meats according to your whim or family tastes.

4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
2 cups diced cooked ham, chicken, turkey or sauteed
cooking ground beef
Add one of the following for seasoning:
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded cheddar cheese for ham
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning for poultry
2 tablespoons instant minced onion and ½ teaspoon oregano for beef
Peanut oil—2 inches deep heated to 380 degrees

In a bowl, mix flour, baking powder, salt, egg yolks and milk until smooth. Fold in egg whites and cooked meat. Stir in desired seasoning. Drop mixture by heaping tablespoons into preheated peanut oil. Fry 5 to 6 minutes or until fritters are golden brown on all sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve topped with your favorite spicy tomato sauce or creamy mushroom sauce. Can also be served with warm maple syrup.

Main dish fritters
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 egg yolks
1 cup milk

Polly's pointers

Gray rug needs a professional

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns the way garden seeds are packed. There are too many seeds in one package when there are only two people in a family. Even if one only plants half the package, the other half is wasted. The seeds will then be too old to plant next year. It seems there could be smaller packages available for those who want them. We give produce from our garden away and freeze some, but we would prefer planting a smaller quantity of seeds and have a greater variety. — RUBY D.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I made a great mistake when I bought a white living room rug, since I have two small children. Now it looks almost gray. I wonder if there is any spray paint one could use on a 100 per cent nylon rug. — MRS. S.

DEAR MRS. S. — I know of no such spray nor of any place that will dye carpets any more. The varying fibers in today's rugs and carpets could make this a rather hazardous job. The best advice I have to offer is to have the rug professionally cleaned and sprayed with a soil retardant. Mrs. S.'s letter should serve as a warning to other young mothers. It is often necessary to sacrifice one's particular color preferences when there are children to be considered. — POLLY.

Obedience class graduation held

A mixed-breed dog owned by Steven Cabillot, 1311 South Sneed, won a trophy for first place in the Sedalia Kennel Club obedience class graduation held at the fairgrounds.

A St. Bernard owned by Turti Vogel, 1422 South Kentucky, placed second. Third place was taken by Carol Thomas, Tipton, with her collie. The fourth place ribbon went to a schnauzer owned by Connie Kahn, 700 West Third.

The 15 dogs were shown at the end of a ten week school taught by Monica Huhn, Warrensburg.

The classes are held three times a year in the fall, spring and summer. A fee is charged for the class to defray the cost of a lead and collar given to each dog. An advanced class is also taught to members of the kennel club.

The next class should begin at the end of September.

Military decline parallels Kissinger's reign

By TOM TIEDE
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — It is becoming ever more difficult to dismiss the idea that Henry Kissinger and not Watergate is the most unfortunate legacy of the Richard Nixon administration.

Tiede

The seven years of the professor's presiding over U.S. policy have seen an astonishing decline in the strength of America's military defenses. This is no longer merely the opinion of the generals and their arms manufacturers. The facts are potent enough to fertilize Kansas.

Unsettling as the curiosities of Watergate were, the nation is stronger because of them; perhaps the exact opposite conclusion must be drawn from the curiosities of the presence of the secretary of state.

In 1969 the United States was still and clearly the strongest power on earth. Today it isn't. It has the third largest armed force, and the second largest arms budget — and for the first time in decades there are fears for its ability to withstand nuclear aggression.

The statistics of the matter have been widely circulated. Unfortunately they have attracted only narrow attention. Legislative interest in the numbers has generally broken into two camps: that which forever believes the U.S. is about to be invaded, and that which holds that too much is spent on armaments already. As for the public, it has largely been left ignorant; it hears the arguments regarding missile comparisons, but who is the taxpayer to believe?

Believe the worst. If the U.S. military situation is not now grave, it is at least awful. Consider, for example, that since Kissinger inherited the reins of national security planning, the USSR has tripled its military budget, has added more than a million men to its armed force, and now leads the U.S. (by $150 billion to $110 billion, and by 4.5 million men to 2.1 million men) in these categories.

And that is only the beginning. A current Library of Congress report says the Soviet Union leads the U.S. 2.5 to 1 in total nuclear megatonnage, by 225 per cent in total atomic throw weight, and by 62 per cent in its strategic force budget. Other Russian leads are these: tanks, 42,000 to 10,000; major combat ships, 226 to 182; attack submarines, 253 to 73; SAM launchers, 9,500 to 330; cruisers, 33 to 27. Of the major comparisons, the U.S. is ahead in total numbers of warheads, helicopters, aircraft carriers and tactical planes.

But the numbers do not tell it all. While the Soviets have fattened their offensive capabilities, they have hardened their defenses as well. Spending as much as $5 billion annually on civil defense, the Russians now have the capacity for protecting more than 90 per cent of their population in the event of nuclear war. Intelligence sources believe the Soviets are stocking enough grain to feed its population for 300 days. Its underground shelters are built to withstand one megaton blast one mile from target. Meanwhile, the U.S. civil defense plan is incomplete and virtually unknown to the citizenry.

And as if all this isn't gloomy enough, there is the added pessimism that in time of war the U.S. would likely begin battle as the first-strike victim. This means that present strategic inventories would be greatly reduced by Russian bomb blasts. Our 1,600 ICBMs could be reduced by half or more, our tactical aircraft numbers might be quartered, our aircraft carrier superiority made nil. The worry is that a large enough Russian strike could put this nation in the tactical position of either surrendering or being wiped out.

Could it happen? Henry Kissinger isn't nervous about it. He believes the United States with its allies remain superior to the Russians with theirs, and he has volumes of arguments supporting his determinations. Don't worry, he says. Trust me, he says. Wars are not fought with adding machines, he explains, and figures are not necessarily facts.

Still, one wonders. The Soviet defense budget has been rising at 3 to 5 per cent a year since the Cuban missile crisis of 1962. The Russians now spend more of their GNP on arms than did Hitler in the last years before World War II. It is a complex matter, and one the next administration must try to resolve.

Tribute

to a rare woman

WASHINGTON — A rare and beautiful woman died the other day.

Rowan

How I wish with all my heart we could produce 4 million black women like her, for they would make a fantastic passport to freedom for the next three generations of black children.

But it may be too much even to dream of being blessed with that many women of the character and strength of Edith Murphy of Buffalo, N.Y.

Most of you readers never heard of her, though she was almost 90 at death, because she was not a "public figure." She was a housewife and mother in every good sense of those words. But if we could get more of today's black women to set their priorities the way Edith Murphy set hers, there would be less wailing about black children who fail scholastic aptitude tests, black girls who get pregnant at age 14, blacks who get ripped off at Medicaid mills or at food stamp outlets.

Edith Lawrence grew up in deep slave country — Charleston, S.C. But nobody ever beat or worked the pride out of her ancestors. She married Benjamin Franklin "Pat" Murphy of Montgomery, Ala., a man also of humble circumstances but also of uncommon self-esteem.

I would give a week of my salary every month to anyone with a successful formula for creating throughout black America the sense of family, the quest for achievement, the respect for learning, the motivation of children that Edith and Pat Murphy produced.

Each of them had been fortunate enough to learn early that an ignorant man or woman is everybody's prey. So they struggled to educate themselves. After teaching stints in Texas, they moved to Buffalo where Pat worked for the Railway Postal Service. He had become a supervisor when he died 17 years ago, but his salary probably never exceeded $8,000 a year.

Edith Murphy, the money manager, believed that a family sacrificed all else to educate its children. So in the middle of the depression she squeezed out enough pennies to put her older son through Fisk University and Meharry medical college.

Nobody was giving scholarships or much of anything else to blacks in the early 1940s when "Edie" and "Pat" always had two children in college or medical school at the same time.

With perhaps $4,000 a year income then, it meant that the family ate beans and rice very often. Pat Murphy never owned more than one halfway decent suit at a time. Their economic strain is best illustrated by the fact that when the older daughter ran up a library bill of $17.85, and Fisk said she couldn't graduate until it was paid, Edith Murphy paid Fisk — but had no money left to take the train to Nashville for graduation ceremonies.

But somehow, Edith Murphy sacrificed to the extent that she put four children through college, with one son now a doctor, another a dentist; one daughter a social work administrator, the other daughter my wife.

I never heard Edith Murphy talk about how little money she had in the bank. She regarded her four children as the best things she could bequeath to society — and especially to her grandchildren.

We black people have talked a lot about "dignity" and "black pride" in recent years. Edith Murphy was from a generation that did not take easily to being called "black," but she was the essence of black pride; and she was dignity personified.

Many a night I used to sit on the porch of Pat Murphy's modest little house in Buffalo, sipping on his homemade peach wine, listening to him talk about his and Edith's voyage away from bondage.

I sensed that behind his often-told tales, his laughing remembrances of a thousand racial insults, Pat Murphy carried the same capacity for raging resentment as any ghetto lad today.

But when Edie would laugh with him I also sensed they never forgot that mere rage is never enough. They knew what they had done for their children — and mine — and seemed to rejoice quietly over the fact that they never let the system's cruelties crush them.

Nothing matters more to black liberation than whether we produce a lot more mothers and wives like Edith Murphy.

Let's all take part in new city plan

Tonight, the first of three public hearings on a proposed city plan for Sedalia will be held at the Municipal Building. They will continue through Wednesday and will begin at 7:30 p.m.

At this stage, the "basic framework plan," as the Planning and Zoning Commission calls it, is just that: a starting point for discussion. The main points of the plan were explained to newsmen at a "preview" showing last week.

From that briefing, it was evident that the Show-Me Regional Planning Commission, which has handled the project, has done a comprehensive and in-depth job. This is not to say that the plan is perfect; it may well need modifications. But planner Ken Velharticky, who has been working on the Sedalia project for more than a year, has gone about his task in a systematic and thorough manner.

Sedalia has had city plans before. Mainly they have been put together at great time — and expense — and then neatly filed away and forgotten. As cities go, Sedalia has been very thoroughly studied, but not much has come of it to date.

The present 25-year plan is built around data gathered in six basic areas: land use, housing, population, labor force, economy and traffic. There is a great deal of meaty information in each of these studies that should be of interest to any Sedalian.

We are impressed by the seriousness and dedication with which the Planning and Zoning Commission has undertaken the city plan. And its determination to see that whatever plan is adopted for Sedalia is understood and supported by the people may well spell the difference between one that succeeds and one that fails. The lack of this popular base of support may well explain why past efforts have been a bust.

As far as planning itself is concerned, we have no doubt that Sedalia should adopt some plan. The alternative is let things take care of themselves, which they rarely do.

The first step toward arriving at a consensus is public discussion and debate. We urge every Sedalian to take advantage of the hearings that are being provided for that purpose.

WASHINGTON — President Ford's former campaign manager, Howard "Bo" Callaway, lost his job over a conflict of interest. Now he's involved in another apparent conflict.

The irrepressible "Bo" has an incurably friendly nature. He considers it unneighborly to turn down a friend in need of a favor. While he was Secretary of the Army, he intervened with the Forest Service to help gain a favorable land ruling for a friend who had opened the Crested Butte, Colo., ski resort. It turned out that Callaway had a financial stake in the resort.

This cost him the campaign manager's job. He gave it up, protesting his innocence to the end. Now we've learned that he helped another friend, Jay C. Tapp, fight a dam that would have flooded his vacation home. Again Callaway is protesting his innocence with all possible vigor.

Merry-go-round

Bo Callaway gets into another bind

He comes across as a rustic sophisticate, with a blend of shrewdness and amiability in his Georgia twang. But the facts speak for themselves.

Callaway became acquainted with Tapp through the Young Presidents Organization, which is made up of corporate heads who are under 50 years old and whose companies have an annual business volume of more than $2 million.

The Army Engineers planned a dam at Clopton Crossing, Tex., which would submerge Tapp's vacation home under 30 feet of water. Tapp, therefore, put up a fight to block the dam.

In a January, 1975, letter to Callaway, Tapp complained about the Clopton Crossing project and suggested the creation of an advisory committee to oversee the planning of the Army Engineers. As Army Secretary, the obliging Callaway created the Army Civil Works Advisory Committee and appointed Tapp to head it.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., is investigating the case. He found that Tapp used his position on the committee almost exclusively to fight the project that threatened his vacation home.

Footnote: Tapp told our associate, Jack Cloherty, that he gave priority to the Clopton Crossing project because it is located in his region. He denied this was a conflict, contending that the dam would leave him with valuable lakefront property.

Callaway admitted that he took a special interest in Tapp's committee. This was not to help Tapp, he insisted, but to provide the Army with "free business expertise." Callaway said he didn't even know about Tapp's apparent conflict.

Auxiliary police chief backed

Mayor Hawkins' hesitancy to reappoint Fred Rose as chief of the auxiliary police borders on the ridiculous, and his reason for this action is not particularly lucid. True, members of the Sedalia police force are required to live within the city limits, but they are being paid by the city of Sedalia. Mr. Rose's services have not cost the city a dime, so one case does not parallel the other. There is absolutely no basis for the guideline set forth by the mayor. Even though Mr. Rose does live outside the city limits, 30 years of voluntary, unpaid service to the city — valuable and highly competent service, according to Chief Miller — can only be seen as a sincere, abiding interest in the city.

We are continually urged to civic service and to "get involved" in local affairs, but here is a man who has given most generously of his time and money in this field for nearly 30 years, and is now about to be told, "We don't want you; you are not a citizen of Sedalia." How come we tolerated for some time a City Council member who was not living in Sedalia, but continued to serve on the council and collect his salary for that? Where is the consistency we have a right to expect?

This situation smells of personality conflicts and just plain "nit-picking," and I think we have a right to expect a higher standard of performance than that from any of our city officials.

Chickweed germinates in the early fall and may be controlled now by a pre-emergent application of Dacthal. Anytime that moist, cool weather occurs from about Labor Day onward, chickweed begins germination. Dacthal applied about Labor Day as for crabgrass control in the spring, will control the germinating chickweed. For those folks who are interested in preventing the problem in their lawns, strawberries and flower beds, this is the most effective way available to accomplish that end.

Dacthal is available in wettable powder for spraying or granules for spreading dry.

More wheat

The market is reflecting the probability that a large amount of wheat will need to be fed during the current crop year. This will happen only if the price of wheat is approximately equal to that of corn.

If exports of about a billion bushels and minimum domestic use of 710 million are subtracted from the available supply, a total of 1,051 million bushels would be available for feed and carry-over. This is 700 million above minimum. The record non-government carry-over was 665 million last May 31. The 700 million surplus will be divided between feed and carry-over. Since the market and the farmers in particular are unlikely to carry 1,050 million, a large quantity of wheat will probably go for feed.

Prussic acid

Fall is a season when conditions occur that could result in prussic acid poisoning. Prussic acid is most apt to form when plants have been stunted by frost, drought, freezing or near freezing temperatures.

Plants that are wilted following frost. They may be grazed again after normal growth is resumed. They may also be used after the stubble is dead and thoroughly cured. Forages are likely to be most dangerous when plants are less than 15 to 18 inches high.

Neither sudangrass or sorghum-sudan is dangerous when preserved as hay or silage after the ensiling process is complete. Some farmers are hesitant about turning animals into sorghum stubble after heads have been harvested. Such stubble is absolutely safe when plants are dead and totally cured.

For those who want to pasture such fields while some of the foliage is still green, the forage can be tested for prussic acid content. Most veterinarians are equipped to make such tests. Second growth milo is usually very high in prussic acid.

If cattle or sheep — the most susceptible farm animals — become poisoned from prussic acid, remove them from the area being pastured and call a veterinarian immediately. Treatment must often be given quickly to avoid death.

Grain producers, shippers not happy despite forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even with the corn crop forecast down by 5 per cent from early August, government officials maintain the record 5.89 billion bushels now predicted is more than enough to keep all expected foreign and domestic customers happy.

But some producers and transporters of corn, wheat, rice and other crops for those customers aren't too happy, it appears.

Related Agriculture Department reports of considerable shifting around in the grain-export markets may not help.

Late last week, for example, 18 congressmen from wheat-producing states — including House Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., and the powerful chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex. — urged President Ford to boost the wheat production-loan rate to $2.50 a bushel.

The rate is now $1.50 a bushel.

Farmers borrow money under the program to finance growing or marketing their crops, using the grain as collateral until they sell it or default it to the government, which then sells it to cover the loan.

A higher rate would allow them to store their 1976 harvest, without selling at a loss, and get new financing, the congressmen said.

About the same time, the American Waterways Operators announced the formation of an emergency task force of the domestic water-carrier industry to work with the Army Corps of Engineers to deal with a water shortage that has cut barge capacity in half on the Mississippi River.

The AWO group said that the water level is the lowest in 16 years and the corps has suggested the river could be closed to navigation temporarily if the situation persists.

Farmers from the so-called breadbasket states of the Midwest normally ship about 80 per cent of their export grain by barge to Gulf ports.

The winter wheat harvest and shipment is winding down, but corn and soybeans start coming in in significant amounts in two weeks. The peak of the shipping season hits in early October, the group said.

The aim of the task force, chairman Tom Gladders said, is to help the corps get dredging equipment operating in the river to facilitate barge movements and to help coordinate efforts to assure "that rules on loading and size of flotillas and special traffic regulations are efficiently communicated to operating personnel."

The congressmen organized by Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Tex., said the $2.50 loan level — recommended in a farm bill Ford vetoed in the spring of 1975 — would "provide immediate relief to farmers and provide some insurance to the banks that finance their operations."

Hightower said that the National Association of Wheat Growers had told him that Ford last week rejected its request for a $3 loan level.

The congressmen wrote Ford that wheat prices now — an average of $2.97 on Aug. 15 — are about 25 per cent below a year ago, and smaller banks are "dangerously extended awaiting payment for loans granted to produce the current crops."

That would bring immediate relief, they said, while "active advocacy" of Food for Peace shipments and more wheat exports "could help reverse the decline in wheat prices" over the longer term.

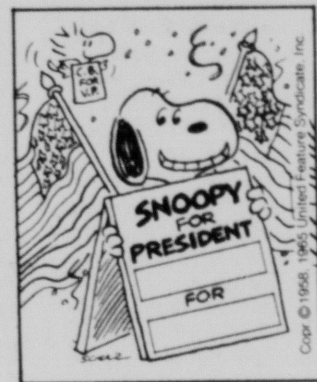

Foreign assessment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Various USDA reports last week and in Monday's issue of Foreign Agriculture magazine forecast a market for 13 million metric tons of wheat and coarse grains in East Europe, with Poland alone saying it will import more than 7 million.

But Poland has so far bought only 400,000 tons of U.S. grain from the 1976-77 supply, compared to 1.6 million at the same point in last year's somewhat better season for that nation.

Brazil, however, a traditional importer, is expecting a record crop of 4 million tons, or 2½ times the 1975 harvest — bringing it, the magazine said, "one step closer to its ultimate goal of wheat self-sufficiency." That means imports there at their lowest in five years.

South Dakota dairy cows take plane ride to Iran

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — An airliner with 74 passengers flew from Sioux Falls on Sunday offering no tea, no coffee, but plenty of milk. Aboard were 74 dairy cows, each bearing a calf and headed for Iran.

They are the first of several thousand cattle destined for Iran, where South Dakota farmers found the animals would be welcomed with government backing and higher prices than they can get in the United States.

Iran, with 34 million people, can use 200,000 breeding cows immediately, said Joe Morris of Rapid City, a rancher and president of American Farm Products International Inc., which is exporting the cattle.

"And Iran is just one country. The market is very viable," he said of the Middle East.

Morris, who runs a ranch north of Hebron, N.D., began looking for international cattle markets last year when he found himself "constantly working the short end and losing money."

The South Dakota Agriculture Department recommended he look to the oil-rich Middle East, and state marketing director Dale Gullickson traveled to Iran with Morris to line up contracts.

By shipping 5,000-8,000 cattle a year by air to Iran, the program will reduce the over-supply in South Dakota, Gullickson said, and "create a great enough demand to have an influence on price."

The cattle underwent eight days of quarantine, and were released from sealed trucks directly into the DC8 cargo jet for the 15-hour flight.

Flights are already committed for Sept. 21 and Sept. 27, and plans call for weekly shipments thereafter.

Fertilize in the Fall!

Use Crop-mate liquid.
You'll get a higher yield than with dry blends.

Liquid is the modern way to fertilize. Here's why. Unlike dry blend fertilizers that have different particle sizes that can separate out, Crop-mate liquid fertilizer is uniform in nutrient analysis, drop by drop.

Plus, our double coverage system assures even spreading, so that each row in your field gets the right amount of nutrients. And when each row gets the right balance of nutrients, test results show a higher per-acre yield.

It's all part of our Crop Guide, P.L.A.N.—Precision Liquid Application of Nutrients. Give us a call today. We can help you get a higher yield next year.

Our job is you.

K.C. bats belt out 16-6 win

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog is enjoying himself for the first time in a long spell.

The personable skipper of the faltering Royals sat back and watched his staggering troupe romp to a 16-6 victory over the error-plagued Minnesota Twins Sunday giving K.C. two straight wins for the first time in 17 days.

"The last time I enjoyed a game like this was three weeks ago when Dennis Leonard beat Texas 7-0," said Herzog. "We've got to win 15 more games, then there's no way anyone can catch us."

The Royals scored 13 unearned runs in the game including nine freebies in the sixth, when Frank White reached base on an error with two outs. White tripled with the bases loaded to climax the inning as the Royals built a 13-2 advantage.

"We played a bad, bad ballgame," said Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch, who was obviously upset by six Twins errors. "We have no business playing as badly as we did."

The Twins ripped Kansas City 18-3 Friday night and were on their way to victory Saturday when Amos Otis slammed a three-run homer off Minnesota relief ace Bill Campbell to cap a five-run ninth inning that lifted the Royals to an 8-6 victory.

"They beat us 28-27 in the series," chuckled Herzog about the high scoring three-game set. "They had a heckuva lead though and we really came back."

Marty Pattin, now 7-12, went the first seven innings and scattered six hits to record the victory.

Hal McRae sparked the 14-hit Kansas City attack with a double and two singles to boost his average to .341 and regain the lead in the hotly-contested American league batting race. George Brett went 2-for-5 and remained at .339.

"If I'm going to win it, I'm going to win it," said

McRae. "If we can win the pennant, the batting title doesn't matter to me. I can make more money if we win the pennant than if I win the batting title without a pennant."

Pete Redfern, now 5-8, was the victim of the shaky Minnesota defense.

Larry Hisle blasted a two-run homer, his 12th of the season, in the ninth inning off K.C. reliever Paul Splittorff.

The defeat dropped Minnesota 10½ games back of the Royals, who maintained a five-game lead over the second-place Oakland A's.

"We might have eliminated Minnesota, but I hope they win their next four," said Herzog.

The Twins open a two-game homestand with the A's tonight and then travel to Oakland for games Wednesday and Thursday. K.C. moves into Chicago to kickoff a three-game set with a doubleheader tonight.

Cards 30, Seahawks 24

Late surge not enough

SEATTLE (AP) — "Did you hear that crowd?" asked an obviously delighted fan, Pete Rozelle. "Gosh, I think the fans are going to have a lot of fun with this team."

Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, made the comment Sunday after viewing the St. Louis Cardinals' 30-24 victory over the scrappy, first-year Seattle Seahawks in the NFL regular season opener for both teams before 58,441 screaming fans in the Kingdome.

For the first three quarters Sunday, it wasn't the fans, but the explosive Cardinals who were having a lot of fun as they pushed the inexperienced Seahawks all over the field.

Thanks to the punishing ground game of Jim Otis and Terry Metcalf, who rushed for 140 and 113 yards, respectively, St. Louis took command early and then held on for dear life in the late going.

"To see them so competitive was really tremendous," Rozelle said of the debut of the Seahawks, the NFL's youngest member. "They've got all the tools. That Zorn, he was so cool. With a little time I'm sure we'll see them develop into real contenders."

"I was extremely impressed with Seattle and the job Jack Patera has done, especially with the makeshift lineup he's put together," said relieved St. Louis Coach Don Coryell. "They may lose a lot of games, but they'll win eventually. They never gave up. They kept coming back. They played a super game."

Seattle trailed 23-3 before young southpaw quarterback Jim Zorn engineered the Seahawks back into the game with three late touchdowns.

Zorn, who completed 17 of 37 passes for 292 yards and two interceptions, hit Sam McCullum with a 15-yard TD pass late in the third period and found him again with a 72-yard touchdown bomb one minute into the final period. The second score narrowed St. Louis' lead to 30-17. Seattle's final touchdown came on Zorn's eight-yard run with 5:09 left following an interception of a Jim Hart pass deep in St. Louis territory.

Seattle had the ball at the Cardinals 43 with four seconds left but Zorn's pass intended for Steve Largent was picked off at the goal line by Mike Sensibaugh as the gun sounded.

"I was delighted to see we could make the passing game go when they knew we had to pass and were just teeing off on us," said Seattle's rookie Coach Patera. "Zorn generally was very accurate and very good."

"It's nice to come close to beating a contender but you have to be disappointed when you don't win. While we did some good things we also did an awfully lot of things that weren't right. Metcalf leaves a lot of people sitting there looking, and Otis must have averaged 10 yards a carry. Is that their ability or our tackling?" Patera said grinning.

St. Louis led 13-3 at halftime on Hart's 12-yard TD pass to Ike Harris and Jim Bakken field goals of 28 and 22 yards. Don Bitterlich's 27-yard field goal for Seattle tied the game at 3-3 early in the first period.

Hart's 27-yard scoring pass to Pat Tilley and Bakken's third field goal, a 26-yarder, gave the Cards their 23-3 bulge before Seattle caught fire behind Zorn. Otis sandwiched a one-yard touchdown run in between McCullum's two scoring catches.

Drag explosion injures fans

COMMERCE, Ga. (AP) — A top fuel dragster's engine exploded at Atlanta International Dragway Sunday, injuring about 10 persons who were struck by shrapnel flying into the grandstands.

Seven persons were treated for minor injuries and released from hospitals in Commerce and Athens, and several others were treated at the track infirmary, officials said.

Clayton Harris of Moulton, Ala., was halfway down the strip in his semifinal run against Shirley "Cha Cha" Muldowney, of Mount Clemens, Mich., when the engine in his racer exploded.

Mother, son tops in golf

PIPESTEM, W.Va. (AP) — Harold Payne of South Charleston, W.Va., won the men's division while his mother, Cathy Payne, took the women's honors Sunday in the Pipestem Invitational golf tournament.

Payne, the defending champion, had rounds of 37 and 38 in the final day of play Sunday for a three-over-par total of 219.

Just out of reach

San Diego Chargers' Rickey Young (34) brushes aside Chiefs' linebacker Jim Lynch (51) as he picks up short yardage in the first half of Sunday's NFL season opener in Arrowhead Stadium Sunday. A couple of plays later, Young scored the Chargers' first TD, setting the stage for San Diego's 30-16 win.

But San Diego regained the advantage with the second half opening kickoff and put the game out of reach with a second third-quarter drive capped by Fouts' 22-yard strike to Gary Garrison.

Livingston passed for 236 yards on 20 completions, but suffered three interceptions and Wiggins was asked if he considered switching to backup Tony Adams.

"What stands out in my mind is not so much Livingston's interceptions or anything like that," he answered, "but the way their offensive line was knocking our defensive line back. I think they have a lot better team than the critics say."

O.J. returns to Buffalo

BUFFALO (AP) — O.J. Simpson is back with the Buffalo Bills, ready to play against the Miami Dolphins tonight and saying he'd never ask to be traded again.

The superstar running back rejoined his National Football League teammates Sunday night after a flight from his home in Los Angeles.

He was in a sweat suit about an hour later, working out in Rich Stadium where the Bills open their NFL season against the Dolphins in a nationally televised game (ABC-9 p.m., EDT).

O.J. Simpson

Simpson watched his teammates run through punting, kickoff and offensive drills, then stepped into his old slot and carried the ball seven times.

"He looked in good shape and still has his same old speed," Coach Lou Saban said.

Simpson's separation from the Bills ended officially Sunday morning when owner Ralph Wilson announced that he and Simpson had reached agreement on a "long-term understanding during two days of talks on the West Coast this past week."

It was on June 12 that Simpson asked to be traded to a West Coast team, preferably the Los Angeles Rams, because of family and business considerations.

Wilson was unable to make a deal with the Rams and the trade deadline passed at 4 p.m. last Wednesday.

Wilson flew to Los Angeles Friday, talked with Simpson and his wife, Marguerite, that day and again Saturday.

After long discussions with his wife and the Saturday negotiation, Simpson told Wilson he would return.

"It was a difficult decision to make and Marguerite pushed me, knowing I wanted to play football," Simpson said.

He said he had a three-year commitment to the Bills.

Under a five-year contract Simpson signed following his 2,003-yard rushing performance in 1973, he reportedly was paid $250,000 a year.

Wilson said on June 12 he was prepared to offer Simpson a contract of $500,000 a year for the next two years.

Neither Simpson, Wilson nor other Bills' officials would say how much Simpson will get in the new contract, but the yearly amount was believed well above $500,000.

Simpson said his present plans call for playing two or three years.

"If I leave here I'll retire," he said. "I won't play for any other team," adding that he never again would ask to be traded.

Father-son golf tourney champs

Ray and Dennis Paul, and Carey Hazell and Bob Stockwood captured the top age divisions of Sunday's Father-Son Golf Tournament at Walnut Hills Country Club.

Ray and Dennis Paul won the 16-over division of the father-son class, while Hazell and Stockwood were first in the 16-over adopted father-son division.

In the other age groups of the father-son division, George and David Thompson were first in the 13-15 group, and Vernon and Scott Bingham captured the 12-under class.

In the adopted father-son division, Damon Hieronymus and Alan Braverman topped the 13-15 class; Al Grother and Mark Thomas were first in the 12-under class.

MU stuns So. Calif.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nervousness appeared to grab the University of Southern California's football players and unranked Missouri upset the 8th-ranked Trojans in both teams' college football opener.

The game went to the Tigers, 46-25, even though the statistics made the game appear close. It wasn't.

"They did everything we expected them to do," said USC defensive tackle Gary Jeter. "We just didn't stop them."

And for new coach John Robinson, taking over for John McKay who had coached the Trojans for 17 years, the game showed he has work to do on defense.

Missouri capitalized on three terrible Southern Cal errors to pile up the points early, and only the running of Ricky Bell and freshman Charles White made the score as close as it was.

Curtis Brown piled up 101 yards and also caught three passes, scored three touchdowns — including one on a 95-yard kickoff return — and was virtually unstoppable in key situations for the Tigers.

And Steve Pisarkiewicz passed for three scores as he continually frustrated the Trojans on third downs.

The breaks came early as Missouri moved to a 30-10 halftime lead.

Freshman Mike McDonald's bad center snap on fourth down early in the game resulted in a 34-yard loss to the USC 21, and four plays later, Brown, a 200-pound speedster, scored from five yards out.

After Bell ran six yards to tie the score four minutes later, Brown took the following kickoff and blitzed up the right side for a touchdown.

The score mounted on two big plays, the first, a 25-yard touchdown pass from Zark, as he's known in Missouri, to Leo Lewis, and the second an electrifying 49-yard touchdown run by Brown on a pass play.

Zark, following plays called by coach Al Onofrio, frequently tossed what were virtually laterals. With just 19 seconds to play in the first half, one such short toss was caught by Brown, who was still at the 50 before setting off on his touchdown romp. Sam Stewart wiped out two USC defenders on the run and late in the game he caught a 15-yard pass for a score himself.

USC fumbled four times, suffered 74 yards in penalties and showed anything but the same precision of past years.

"I think USC has a good defensive team," said Onofrio. "That might sound silly, since we scored 46 points, but not if you look at how we scored some of them. In first games of the season, we just don't know what's going to happen."

The Tigers beat Alabama, 20-7, to open 1975, and over the years have made a habit of scoring upsets.

Still, the Tigers won the offensive battle by only 486-452, and the first down battle, 23-22, and permitted Bell to rack up 172 yards.

Shutout pleases SMS grid mentor

By The Associated Press
Rich Johanningmeier knew Southwest Missouri State could score points when he took over the football coaching job last winter.

Now he knows the Bears can also stop opponents from doing the same thing.

"This was the first shutout since the last game of the 1973 season," he said Sunday in reviewing Southwest Missouri's 28-0 victory over Emporia State.

"We needed it. It gave us a lot of confidence and showed us we can play defense. We spent a lot of time preparing and I don't think it was a fluke."

He promptly switched the Bears attack from a veer to a double wing and revamped the defense from a five-man line to just four. Both changes proved devastating against Emporia State.

The Hornets rushed for only 51 yards and hit six of 14 passes for 69, while Southwest Missouri rolled up 318 on the ground and connected on eight of 11 for 112.

Sophomore Fred Ford carried 13 times for 146 yards, including a 54-yard touchdown, and senior Gino Travline scored three times in rushing 17 times for 67 yards.

"We had two more touchdowns called back," commented Johanningmeier, whose Bears are tabbed for second place in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association. "But if you run a touchdown down someone's throat, even if it's called back, psychologically they unow you've scored on them."

In other weekend action among Missouri small colleges, Wabash dismissed Washington, 30-8; Arkansas tech put together a 19-144 conquest of Central Methodist; Eureka manhandled Culver-Stockton, 30-13; Missouri Southern pulled out a 14-12 squeaker against Central Missouri State; Washburn edged Missouri Valley, 14-13; Eastern Illinois overcame Northeast Missouri State, 24-4; Mississippi Valley drubbed Lincoln, 41-0; Missouri-Rolla squeezed past Missouri Western, 7-6; Northwest Missouri State blanked Pittsburgh State, 24-0; Southeast Missouri State posted a 10-7 victory over Central Arkansas, and Tarkio nudged Concordia, Neb., 24-21.

LSU football player arrested in stabbing

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A Louisiana State University football player, Rusty Domingue, was booked for attempted murder in a stabbing three hours after he helped his team tie top-ranked Nebraska.

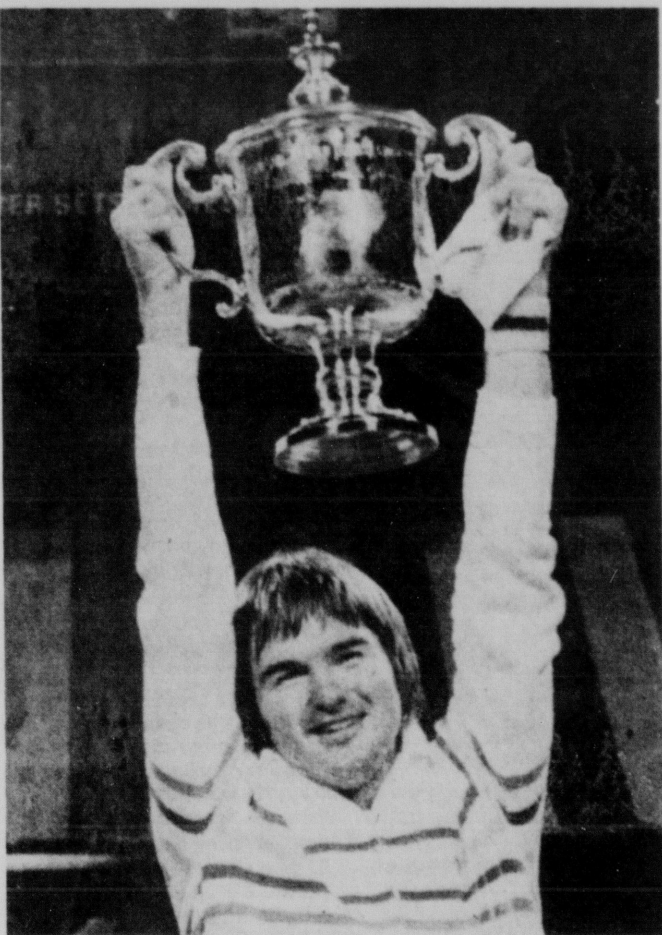

Domingue, 21, from Port Arthur, Tex., was a starting linebacker for LSU and blocked a fourth-quarter field goal attempt Saturday night to help his underdog team gain a 6-6 tie with Nebraska.

Police said Domingue was accused of stabbing Richard C. Connally, 24, of New Orleans, during a fight on a street near the LSU campus.

Connally was in fair condition in a Baton Rouge hospital.

Witnesses said Domingue and Connally got into a fight after the football player kicked Connally's sports car. Witnesses said Domingue pulled a "folding knife" and stabbed Connally once in the upper chest.

LSU Coach Charles McClendon said he would have to discuss the case with the local district attorney before deciding whether Domingue would be suspended from the team. Domingue was freed Sunday on $5,000 recognizance bond.

Connors snares U.S. Open title

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The sun finally set on Sweden's Bjorn Borg, the crown prince of world tennis.

And it was James Scott Connors, the pugnacious lefty back in the limelight after a year in the shadows, who turned out the lights.

Connors regained the title he lost last year and vaulted back into the international spotlight Sunday when he beat Borg in the finals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. The match lasted three hours, 10 minutes, the scores were 6-4, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4, and when it was over, Connors had sweet revenge against those who branded him an also-ran after his second-place finishes at Wimbledon, the Australian championships and the Open last year.

Sunday's match began in bright, late afternoon sunshine and ended under the lights at the West Side Tennis Club. It was a curious contest, full of errors by both players. There was no tempo. No one really took command. In the end it was the third-set tiebreaker that determined the outcome.

Connors and Borg split the first two sets and broke each other almost at will as the third set went to 6-6. Borg missed several opportunities to win the tiebreaker as Connors fought off four set points. He saved the first one with a short volley and the second one with a stinging forehand down the line.

At 7-8 he raced to net and smashed an overhead and at 8-9 he did it again. Finally Connors drove a backhand shot past Borg and watched as the Swede hit a forehand wide to win 11-9. Borg never recovered.

Connors broke Borg's serve in the fifth game of the final set when the Swede batted a backhand into the net and then whacked a forehand long. Connors had only to hold serve for the match and he did.

"I was very surprised he played so well," said Borg, calm and expressionless even in defeat. "This is the best he's played against me."

Connors collected $30,000 for his efforts—the same prize money Chris Evert picked up when she beat Evonne Goolagong to win the women's title Saturday.

The doubles championships were also decided Sunday. Marty Riessen and Tom Okker knocked off Australians Paul Kronk and Cliff Letcher 6-4, 6-4 to win the men's doubles; South Africans Linky Boshoff and Ilana Kloss whipped Virginia Wade and Olga Morozova 6-1, 6-4 to take the women's crown, and the mixed went to Billie Jean King and Phil Dent, 3-6, 6-2, 7-5 winners over Betty Stove and Frew McMillan.

Floyd pulls out golf playoff win

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — "I hope," said Jerry McGee, "I lost to the Player of the Year."

Local lady golfers win at Versailles

VERSAILLES—Peggy Bond and Tattie Simmons of Sedalia edged Hazel Brown and Ann Emerick by two strokes here at Rolling Hills Country Club Sunday afternoon for the title in the championship flight of the Versailles Ladies Golf Scrambles Tournament.

Mrs. Bond and Mrs. Simmons, playing out of Walnut Hills Country Club and the Sedalia Country Club respectively, teamed up for a 75, while Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Emerick netted a 77. Both Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Emerick were representing Sedalia Country Club.

Betty Alderman and Joyce Henderson, representing Westmoreland Country Club, had an 82 and placed third in A-flight.

Other local finishers included Mary Curry and Maggie Fischer, both of Walnut Hills, who placed second in B-flight with an 85; and Dorothy Green and Barbara Wells (WCC), who had a 90 for third place in C-flight.

Forty-two teams from central-Missouri golf clubs participated in the event.

Westmoreland Country Club will host a ladies scrambles Sept. 26. The tournament is open to all ladies from local and area golf clubs. More information may be obtained by contacting the pro shop at WCC.

And Ray Floyd, who beat McGee on the first hole of a sudden death playoff for the title in the World Open Golf Tournament Sunday, may have a shot at that title this season.

"He won the Masters going away. His record in the majors is fantastic. He's won twice. He's been in contention every week, it seems. I hope he makes it," McGee said.

"I think I've got a chance," said Floyd, who birdied the 72nd hole to gain a tie and then beat the bitterly disappointed McGee with a birdie on the first playoff hole on the famed No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club.

"I'd have had more than a chance if I'd won the last two weeks," Floyd said. "I really thought I was going to. And that could have fulfilled a lifetime's goals in one year. But I still have a chance."

Floyd was in strong contention for the title in both the American Golf Classic and the World Series of Golf, then blew his chances with final rounds of 76 and 78. This time he very carefully avoided what he called "the I've-got-to-win, I've-got-to-win" attitude. I stayed relaxed, just tried to play my game even when I got three strokes behind."

He overcame that deficit, bogeyed a hole he should have birdied, then nursed in a 10-foot birdie putt on the final hole for a round of par 71.

Jane Blalock sets aim on $100,000 plateau

DALLAS (AP) — Richer by $7,000 as winner of the 21st $50,000 Dallas Civitan Women's Golf Tournament, Jane Blalock heads this week for Portland, Ore., with her aim set on the $100,000 plateau in Ladies PGA tour winnings.

"Sure I'm thinking about $100,000," said the 31-year-old Miss Blalock after her second Civitan triumph and her second tour victory of the season that boosted her year's checking account to $70,826.

"The L.A. tournament pays $35,000 for first and we'll be shooting for $25,000 in the Far East series in Hong Kong, Manila and Tokyo. I could make it easily with a couple wins," she said.

Miss Blalock shot subpar rounds of 67, 67 and 71 to win the Civitan with a 205 total. She took the opening round lead for a four-stroke margin, increased it to nine the second day, then breezed in.

Veteran Kathy Whitworth, 10 shots to the rear going into the final round, carded a two-under par 72 Sunday to finish second with a 54-hole total of 214, worth $5,200.

Tied for third with 217s were Sally Little and Susie McAllister, each winning $3,230.

Doctor explains leukopenia facts

Dear Dr. Lamb — Two doctors tell me I have leukopenia but haven't done anything for me. I'm allergic to drugs. I couldn't find much on leukopenia in my medical books. Could you tell me what causes leukopenia? What, if anything, can be done for it? What kind of diet should I follow? Can it be cured?

Dear Reader — In general there are red cells and white cells in your bloodstream. The white cells are called leukocytes. The decrease of white cells in leukopenia is usually of the cells that increase in number when you have an infection. These are neutrophils so you probably have neutropenia, the main form of leukopenia.

The neutrophils are also called granulocytes. You may have heard the term agranulocytosis which means neutropenia, but the term is usually reserved for more severe forms.

The granulocytes are manufactured in the bone marrow, then released into your bloodstream. You may be surprised to learn that the average white cell doesn't stay in your bloodstream very long. In a short time it migrates out of the circulation into your body tissues. There are 20 times as many granulocytes in your tissues as there are in your circulation.

You also have a reservoir of white cells in your bone marrow. You have 15 to 20 times as many mature white cells in your bone marrow waiting to be released if your body needs them. If a person develops acute appendicitis these cells are released suddenly to combat infection and the white count goes up rapidly. Measuring the white cells in your bloodstream is only an index of how many neutrophils your body may be producing.

Your doctors are probably not doing any more because you are probably one of those people who have a decrease that is not sufficient to be important from a health point of view. A small decrease in cells doesn't seem to make any difference. When the count is well below half the usual value seen the person may be more prone to infections.

The white cells are used to fight off infection. If your count is very low then you will need to take precautions against developing an infection. That will include avoiding crowds, being careful to not injure yourself and even greater care of your skin to avoid pimples and the like. A pimple in a person with poor defenses against infection can be dangerous. I doubt this is your problem.

The cause of the mild cases is unknown. It is sometimes a familial characteristic. Severe forms can be caused by inadequate bone marrow production from actions of drugs, chemical solvents, insecticides and a host of factors. One aspect of treatment in these cases is elimination of the offending drug if possible.

Many drug or chemical induced episodes are cured spontaneously when the offending agent is removed. I would think that you probably don't need anything special except to be checked regularly and, if need be, to take added precautions against infection or to get treatment at once with any sign of an infection. Bond to abide by voters' decision

Meramec referendum called

Skid did Kidd in

Eddie Kidd, a 16-year-old Londoner, cleared 13 double-decker buses (top) but skidded at the bottom of the ramp and smashed into a group of waiting helpers Saturday. He was carried unconscious (bottom) en route to the hospital. Kidd suffered a slight concussion but two of the helpers suffered broken legs. Not even Evel Knievel has managed to clear 13 buses.

(UPI)

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond has called for a public referendum in eastern Missouri on whether to continue construction of the controversial Meramec Dam project.

He told a news conference Sunday that his administration, which has strongly backed the $115 million project near Sullivan, would "abide by the decision of the voters" in the legally nonbinding advisory ballot.

Bond said he would ask the legislature when it convenes in January to call for the referendum in St. Louis city and the counties of St. Louis, Crawford, Dent, Franklin, Gasconade, Iron, Jefferson, Maries, Phelps, Reynolds, St. Charles, St. Francois and Washington.

The legislature will be asked to set a date for the referendum when it reconvenes in Jefferson City Jan. 5, Bond said.

"There have been sufficient questions raised on the project that people ought to speak on it," the governor told newsmen. "A vote in favor of the dam will reassure the Missouri congressional delegation, which has voted for some $35 million in appropriations for the project, that the people still favor the dam."

Bond said state and federal authorities gave approval to the dam project in 1966 and added that he continues to support it. But the Republican governor said he has received a number of letters and petitions asking for a referendum questioning whether the dam still has popular support.

Opponents of the dam contend it would ruin the ecology of the area 65 miles southwest of St. Louis on the Meramec River and reduce the number of free-flowing streams in Missouri.

The Meramec Dam controversy has been heightened in this election year — and some are already questioning Bond's timing on the referendum.

Dairy workers approve pact

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A strike threat by the St. Louis area dairy industry was ended Sunday when members of Teamsters Local 603 ratified a three-year contract.

Union members approved the pact by a 292-219 vote after the union leadership and a federal mediator recommended accepting the terms proposed by the industry bargaining group.

About 700 employees of 14 area dairy firms are covered by the new contract, which calls for a $1.50 wage increase over its three years. Under the old contract, employees were paid from $5.34 to $6.27 an hour.

Cost-of-living provisions and other improvements also were included, a union attorney said.

Burglary suspect commits suicide

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A burglary suspect shot himself to death Sunday as two Joplin police detectives attempted to serve a warrant on him, police said.

Police said the detectives stopped a car driven by Robert Queener, 48, and Queener shot himself to death before they could arrest him.

Richard Gephardt, Democratic candidate for the 3rd Congressional seat, said Sunday night Bond's decision was "an encouraging step toward letting the people speak" but added he was disappointed that voters would not be allowed to decide the question in the November general elections.

"By waiting until January, the large number of voters that will go to the polls in November will be bypassed," Gephardt said.

Rep. James Symington, D-Mo., had asked Bond to call for a referendum on the project during the general election but Bond said at that time that he needed legislative approval to call for an advisory referendum.

Bond aides were quoted as saying three considerations played a part in the decision: easing of the dispute as an issue in Bond's re-election bid since Democratic gubernatorial candidate Joseph Teasdale opposes more money for the dam; wooing of Atty. Gen. John Danforth, the Republican candidate for U.S. Senate and an opponent of the dam, back into the pro-dam camp after the November election; and offsetting the opposition to the dam of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, should he be elected, by a show of public support.

FTC to probe Peabody sale

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) will investigate the handling of the Peabody Coal Co.'s coal reserves, according to an FTC attorney.

The attorney, F.P. Favarella, said that two recent Peabody sales involving about 25,000 acres in eastern Kentucky may have violated the terms of a 1971 FTC order requiring the divestiture of the coal company by its parent concern, the Kennecott Copper Corp.

The order, Favarella said, requires prior FTC approval before Kennecott divests itself of Peabody.

A Kennecott official said that the sales were unrelated to the divestiture issue and were "publicly known, routine business transactions."

Kennecott does not believe that the FTC's divestiture order requires Peabody to "stand frozen," E.E. Dowell, the company's director of public relations, said.

Peabody, which is the biggest coal-producing company in Kentucky, is based in St. Louis. All of its mines are in the western part of the state.

Peabody's September sale — the other took place in May — also involved 12,000 acres in Lee County, Va.

According to FTC estimates, the sales in Kentucky and Virginia involved about two per cent of the 10 billion tons of recoverable coal reserves held by Peabody.

Favarella, who is handling the Kennecott case for the FTC, said that if the copper company is found to have violated the FTC order, it could be fined $5,000 for each day of noncompliance.
